ComputerShare specializes in the provision of software solutions and professional services to the securities industry and their shareholders.

As a global financial services and technology firm with over 14,000 employees and 90 offices around the world, ComputerShare chose this location to expand into Louisville's thriving labor market as well as consolidate their national call center operations.

With the primary employee function for this location utilizing "heads down" space for placing calls, the design team focused on creative use of amenity spaces to support a balance of work and social settings throughout the office. Common areas include a reception space and adjacent HR conference center that welcome visitors with daylight and panoramic city views; expansive pantry/break areas on each floor that encourage gathering and collaboration; and several private phone rooms that can accommodate personal calls and conversations for employees in this largely open layout.
